The Fourth Assembly

Assembly Commission Strategy 2011 – 2016

The National Assembly for Wales is the democratically elected body that represents the interests of Wales and its people, makes laws for Wales and holds the Welsh Government to account.

The Assembly Commission serves the Assembly to help make it a strong, accessible and forward looking democratic institution and legislature that delivers effectively for the people of Wales.

The Commission's strategic focus for the Fourth Assembly will be to:

- Provide outstanding parliamentary support

The Assembly is in a new constitutional position and we will provide fitting support to enable Assembly Members to meet the new challenges they face.

- Engage with the people of Wales

We will create an environment that encourages interest in the work of the Assembly and facilitates engagement in the Assembly's roles of legislating, scrutiny and representation. We will engage actively and widely, and ensure that the Assembly benefits from the creative energy generated by such engagement.

- Promote Wales

Acting as an ambassador for Wales in the wider world, we will make the most of opportunities in the UK and abroad to promote Wales and the work of the Assembly and play our part in the development of parliamentary democracy elsewhere in the world.

- Use resources wisely

We will make the necessary investments to ensure that the Assembly is fully equipped to operate effectively as a parliament with new law-making powers. At the same time, we will reinforce the confidence of Assembly Members and the people of Wales in the way we deliver services and manage costs by making good use of tax-payers' money. We will manage our resources to deliver a vital public service with improved efficiency and value for money.

The Commission will exercise its functions in accordance with statutory principles: with due regard to the principle that there should be equality of opportunity for all people; due regard to the principle of promoting sustainable development; and, so far as is both appropriate in the circumstances and reasonably practicable, that the English and Welsh languages be treated on the basis of equality.

Cost of the National Assembly

The total amount of public expenditure controlled by the National Assembly (the 'Welsh Block') is around £15 billion. Almost all of this money funds the delivery of public services in Wales in the light of the decisions of the Welsh Government. A small proportion (0.3%) is used to fund the cost of the National Assembly itself, in scrutinising and challenging the actions and spending of the Government, making law, and representing the interests of the people of Wales. The Commission believes that this is the right price to pay to provide proper support for law-making, scrutiny of Government and democratic representation.

The Commission's budget for 2012-13 is £47.0 million of which £13.5 million will provide funding for Assembly Members' salaries, those of their support staff and the costs of running their constituency offices located all over Wales. £33.5 million is for services delivered by the Assembly Commission to support the Assembly.

The salaries of Assembly Members are frozen at their current level until at least 2014-15 and next year there will be no increase in the salaries paid to their staff. In addition, the Commission's continuing work to ensure that value for money is provided across the Assembly has provided 2% to be reinvested in the 2012-13 budget. Additional funding approved next year will be used solely to meet cost increases to which we are committed, and to strengthen the services provided by the Commission.

Impact of previous budget reductions

In 2011-12, the then Assembly Commission’s budget strategy was to reduce its spending and make savings, in practice exceeding reductions in the Welsh Block. This was achieved through efficiency and cost reduction measures, careful control of staff levels and a reduction in numbers by means of a voluntary exit scheme, which was taken up by 25 Assembly staff. Other posts have not been filled immediately as they fell vacant or have been withdrawn through restructuring the way services are delivered.

These efficiency and cost reduction measures enabled the Commission to deliver a 6.0%¹ real term reduction in its 2011-12 funding requirement equating to a £2.9 million saving. Looking forward, the Remuneration Board’s decisions to freeze Assembly Members’ salaries, office holder allowances and other costs are set to deliver over £2 million savings during the fourth Assembly.

In November 2010, the Assembly’s Finance Committee emphasised that the Commission must have the resources needed to deliver the services necessary to support the Assembly’s effective scrutiny of Government and other work. The Committee was particularly concerned about the impact on the Assembly's ability to act upon its new powers following the March 2011 referendum.

Although a good service has been maintained during the last two years, reductions and cost savings have affected services in some areas which are valued by the Assembly. In the year 2012-13, there will be further pressure as a result of unavoidable cost increases. The effect of absorbing these increases as well as reductions made in the last two years would make it difficult to meet the aspirations of the new Commission in supporting the Assembly. On this basis, the Commission wishes to maintain the focus on securing value for public money, but also to ensure that the aspirations of Wales for its Assembly are met.

The requirements of the Fourth Assembly

In the March 2011 referendum, the Welsh electorate overwhelmingly voted 'yes' to support greater law-making powers for the Assembly. The Assembly can now pass laws on all subjects in the 20 devolved areas without first needing the agreement of the UK Parliament.

This new constitutional position of the Assembly reinforces the need for outstanding parliamentary support. During the Fourth Assembly, the Commission will:

- strengthen specialist advice and services so that the scrutiny of Welsh Government policy, finance and legislation is sharper, more constructive and better informed;
- ensure that individual Members have the support they need to promote their own proposals for policy and legislative change;
- create an environment for the people of Wales to be increasingly engaged in the work of the Assembly, including the legislative process; and
- deliver all of this in the context of every pound being spent wisely.

The total financial resources required to deliver the Commission's work in 2012-13 and the indicative budgets through to 2014-2015 are summarised in table 1 below.

	2010-11	2011-12	2012-13	2013-14	2014-15

Investment in the Fourth Assembly

The budget will enable the Commission to invest in:

- research specialists in key policy areas and public finance;*
- support for committees, including access to more external expert advice and working outside Cardiff Bay to inform inquiries;*
- expanding the Commission's legal service to match demand; and*
- the professional parliamentary skills of Members and staff.*

Outstanding parliamentary support

An effective parliament must have high quality and specialist staff and support services. With only 60 Members, operating in a bilingual environment, that support is especially important if the Assembly is to meet the expectations of the people of Wales to represent their interests, scrutinise the actions and expenditure of the Welsh Government, and to make good law. The Assembly already benefits from a high level of such support and, over the next five years, the Commission will strengthen that still further.

Specific needs will emerge over the coming years as the legislative programme of the Government grows and the priorities of Members evolve. In the near term, we will strengthen areas of support where we anticipate increased demand. In the Research Service we will appoint specialists in key policy areas and public finance. The support we will then offer, for example, to the scrutiny work of the Finance Committee will be sharpened, with dedicated support to provide the necessary analysis and advice. Enhanced research capacity will also support Members in their scrutiny of some of the new priorities associated with the post-referendum powers of the Assembly such as requests from the UK Parliament for consent to legislate in devolved areas or post-legislative assessment and analysis.

In addition, the Commission will ensure that resources are available to access external expertise so that committees benefit from expert advice of the highest possible calibre during their inquiries.

The new committee structure will allow committees more flexibility in their approach to what are now extremely broad and demanding remits. The Commission will ensure that committees are able to work outside the confines of Cardiff Bay in order to enhance their engagement with those affected by public policy and so inform their inquiries.

The Assembly's new powers to make law across the whole of the devolved fields will lead to a more comprehensive and ambitious legislative programme. There will be increased demand for legal, procedural and research advice flowing from the greater volume and complexity of Assembly legislation. Whilst much of that support will be focused on equipping Members to scrutinise government bills, the Commission will also ensure that similar parliamentary support is available to individual Members and committees seeking to develop and promote their own proposals for legislation.

The Assembly will only be able to take full advantage of the opportunities which parliaments, including devolved legislatures, have acquired under the Lisbon Treaty in relation to subsidiarity issues if specialist legal support relating to European Law is available. The Commission will ensure that the necessary legal support and external legislative drafting capacity are available to respond to these challenges when needed.

The expectations of the Welsh public for the contribution that their Assembly Members will make to improvement in public life are high. Effective parliamentary scrutiny requires Members to shine a light on the activity of government, to challenge thinking, to put forward alternatives and, hence to improve decision making. To support Members in meeting those demands, the Commission will put in place opportunities for Members, their staff and Assembly staff to access professional development activity tailored to their needs in areas such as effective questioning, analysis of evidence and international best practice in parliamentary scrutiny. Through this package of developments, it is the Commission's intention to ensure that Members also have access to the expert advice, analytical capacity and logistical support they need to deliver that objective and to provide outstanding representation for the people of Wales.

Investment in the Fourth Assembly

The budget will enable the Commission to invest in:

- innovative e-democracy;*
- more widespread engagement with people across Wales;*
- further activity with schools and young people;*
- access for Members to relevant, expert thinking; and*
- cost effective tools to provide enhanced bilingual services.*

Engaging with the people of Wales and promoting Wales

An effective parliament must also spread awareness of its work, processes and relevance so as to encourage greater engagement with the public.

The Commission will build on the Assembly's strong track record in education, e-democracy and public engagement by developing initiatives that are ground breaking and exemplary. This section describes examples.

We will continue to work with expert partners to embed the use of new and emerging technology to publicise the work of the Assembly and to ensure that we are at the forefront of e-democracy. Mindful of significant changes in the Welsh media landscape, we will work closely with regional media in Wales to publicise the work of the Assembly, but also focus on raising awareness of the Assembly's work in specialist and UK media. We will improve how we monitor our performance in this area.

The Assembly's outreach and education work will inform communities right across Wales of the Assembly's work. To enhance this service, we will hold more seminars, conferences and workshops to promote and encourage involvement with the work of committees and inquiries.

We will examine our provision of broadcasting services to establish the scope to generate savings which could be used to broadcast a wider range of Assembly activities, including those outside the Senedd.

We will promote the work of the Assembly by supporting Members to host events on the estate and develop our corporate events programme and presence at national and regional shows, working closely with partners such as the Welsh Government and media to promote Wales.

Our programme of work with schools and others in the education sector is highly regarded. It could be broadened and enhanced by closer working with Funky Dragon, school councils, the Welsh Government and others. We will also consider how to involve schools and communities who have not previously engaged with the Assembly. The Assembly bus will be used as a mobile resource to encourage their involvement.

We will develop our relationship with the Wales Governance Centre, Non-Governmental Organisations (NGOs) and a diverse range of organisations and groups to ensure that Members have access to expertise and thinking relevant to our devolved policy areas.

We will develop our bilingual services in line with the principles set by the Commission's proposed Official Languages Bill and draft Bilingual Services Scheme. We will conclude our exploratory work into the use of IT software and machine translation for the Assembly's translation requirements with the aim of delivering a wider range of services and better value for money.

On the global stage, the Assembly will seek to gain and impart knowledge and understanding of international good parliamentary practice. This can be linked to the development of democratic institutions around the world, to which the Assembly can make a positive contribution but from which it can also learn. Engagement with other parliaments, of whatever stage of development, will be a mutually enriching experience.

Investment in the Fourth Assembly

The budget will enable the Commission to invest in:

- systems to cut duplication in back office tasks, improve accuracy and reduce overheads;*
- the sustainability of Tŷ Hywel, to make it less carbon hungry;*
- an apprenticeship and graduate placement scheme, improving opportunities at all levels for those who want to work at the Assembly;*
- a new programme to widen involvement in politics and democracy; and*
- further developing a comprehensive professional support service for Members.*

Using resources wisely

The people of Wales must have confidence that the money we spend on Assembly services is used in the best way. The Commission wants to demonstrate the effectiveness of Assembly services and the success of the outcomes we achieve from the money we receive.

Investing to save

We need to renew and replace the systems which help to deliver accurate, safe and secure services. We will make savings by streamlining processes, using systems to replace wasted activity and add value to what we already do well.

The work on the Assembly's Unified ICT Network (UNO), largely undertaken in 2010-11, delivered an infrastructure and IT service model capable of being driven by the needs, priorities and strategy of the Assembly because it provides an independent and up to date IT platform. This allows the Assembly to make decisions about future ICT independently of the Welsh Government. It provides opportunities for more innovative ways to deliver improved working practices. In undertaking this work in 2010-11 as a single project, the Commission saved an estimated £0.9million (20%) in costs which would otherwise have been incurred in spasmodic replacement and updating of systems.

Sustainability

An exemplary parliamentary body needs to lead by example in meeting its statutory duties to work sustainably. The Commission set itself a target of reducing the estate's carbon emissions by 40% by 2015. In the first two years of our strategy, by April 2011, a 19% reduction in energy emissions was achieved. Despite rising energy costs, this saved about £100,000 over two years. We will need to continue to invest to sustain this progress and to continue to control our spending on energy costs.

Equality of Opportunity

We want accessibility to the Assembly estate and communications material to be best in class, to provide more opportunities for a wider range of people to discover what the Assembly does, join in the debate and help the Assembly to reach good decisions.

We want to improve our ability to attract a diverse range of people to work at the Assembly.

The Assembly estate

We will be exploring the opportunities for using our landmark buildings to attract more people and events. Where appropriate, we will generate income, investing in improvements to help us achieve this. This will allow the Assembly's facilities to be used in new ways which will help build awareness and ownership of the institution. For example, an upgrade of the Pierhead kitchens would allow use for more commercial functions at times when the Assembly does not need to use the facilities, and could provide opportunities for third sector organisations and smaller Welsh companies to showcase their strengths at a reasonable price.

Procurement and contract management

We are strengthening our procurement team and will improve the way we present opportunities to work with the Assembly, driving greater sustainability, diversity and local production and helping to grow market capacity in Wales where we can. In doing so, we will secure value for money, particularly in the way we manage contracts, and will invest further in the skills we need.

The Assembly now has an ICT platform independent of Government and in the next few years, we will transform the way we provide ICT services, building in more flexibility to fit our service with individual needs and allow greater autonomy. This should provide opportunities for smaller and more local enterprises. To achieve this, we need to invest in internal and external skills, although we will aim to deliver savings and better use of resources to offset some of these costs. If the Assembly is to be in the best position to sustain its reputation for the creative use of cutting edge technology, we must be well prepared for decisions about our main ICT contract which is due to expire in 2014.

Building greater capacity in a small legislature

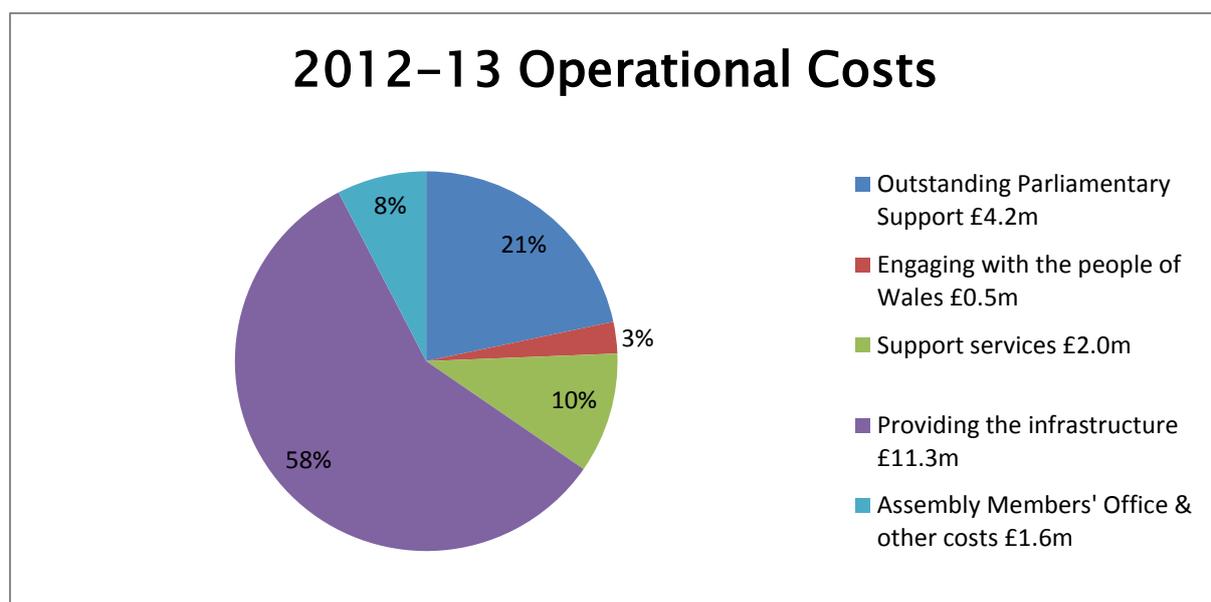

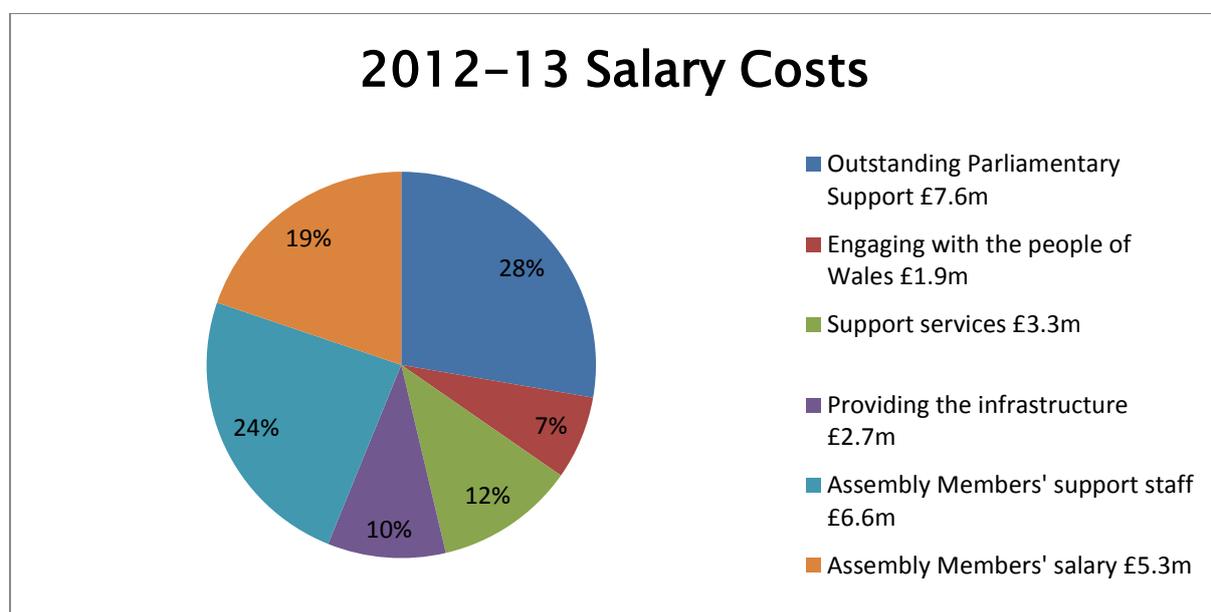

The Assembly needs to deliver at maximum capacity for its sixty Members. To support Members and enable them to play to their strengths and meet the challenge of increased powers, we will ensure that development opportunities are available and that Members' support staff and Assembly staff reach high standards of professionalism in their roles.

We provide first class facilities and opportunities for our staff, as evidenced in our Investors in People Gold status, but there are ways in which these can improve. We will extend development further, promote the Assembly as a great place to work and offer more employment opportunities for disadvantaged groups.

Financial Summary – Assembly Commission resources

The Chief Executive and Clerk of the Assembly leads a Management Board made up of the three Directors and eight heads of the different service areas within the Assembly. Services are delivered through a mix of Assembly staff and contracted supplies and services. The Commission's budget also funds the running costs of the iconic Senedd and Pierhead buildings and the Assembly offices in Cardiff (Tŷ Hywel) and Colwyn Bay. Further information on Assembly services can be found on the Assembly's website www.assemblywales.org.

A breakdown of the way resources are used is set out below.

Specifically, the changes moving from the 2011-12 budget of £44.7million to the 2012-13 budget of £47.0 million are set out in Table 2.

Operational Savings

In delivering the 2012-13 budget, the Commission has identified £0.8 million (2%) savings. These predominantly arise from changes to processes and from contractual negotiations. This means the Commission will benefit from these savings in future years. The budget also projects that savings will arise from turnover of staff and process improvements. The Commission has recently undertaken a series of external challenge sessions using its independent advisers and experts from other Parliamentary institutions. These challenges are highlighting strengths and weaknesses and ways that the Commission can provide its services more effectively, which are informing the service planning currently underway.

Table 3 provides further information on the 2012-13 savings.

The programme will deliver a variety of developments, examples of which are:

- Improving Committee support
- Parliamentary systems - Audio visual, Medialon, Vision 2014
- Communications investment - Senedd tv; archiving; broadcasting
- Professionalising services - further investment in skills and capacity
- Sustainability - building improvements
- Building improvements - improving visitor experience/better facilities for events
- Corporate system replacements - HR/Payroll/Finance
- ICT strategy - current contract ends 2014
- ICT Rolling programme
- Restructuring - Provision for potential voluntary severance scheme / organisational change

The Remuneration Board for Members' pay and other costs

The Remuneration Board for Members' pay and other costs

Decisions over the pay and other costs of Assembly Members are the responsibility of the National Assembly for Wales Remuneration Board, established by Assembly legislation in 2010. The Board is entirely independent of the Assembly and so Members have no direct role in setting their own pay, that of their staff nor the amounts that can be reimbursed for office and other costs. The Board's decisions are published in its National Assembly for Wales' Determination and, by statute, it is the Commission's responsibility to secure the funding necessary to meet the costs arising from the Determination.

The Board has set the base salary of Assembly Members at £53,852 and frozen it at that level for the next four years together with office holder allowances. The Board has also reviewed and revised the eligibility of certain office and other costs. Over the next four years, the savings are calculated as below:

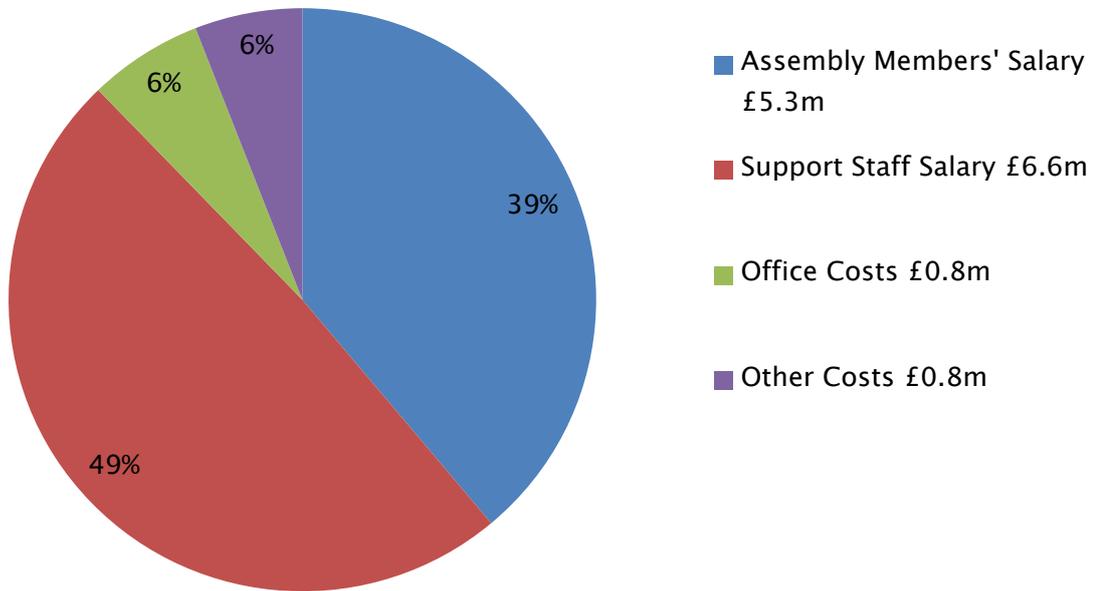

-freezing of salaries	£1.500 million:
-freezing office holder allowances	£0.428 million;
-office and other costs	£0.160 million

As set out in the Determination, Assembly Members have access to office and other costs to provide for:

- running an office and engaging with constituents;
- Support staff salary and travel expenses;
- residential accommodation;
- travel expenses necessarily incurred in the performance of duties; and
- support for Party Groups.

Assembly Members' 2012-13 Budget

In total, the cost of Members' salary, support staff and office costs will be £13.5 million in 2012-13. This reflects the full twelve month pay and allowances available to each Assembly Member. In 2011-12 the Assembly was in dissolution for six weeks, resulting in a lower level of pay and allowances for that election year. There is a further charge arising from accounting adjustments for the Members' pension scheme of £0.5 million. This charge is reflected in the Annually Managed Expenditure (AME) budget and is expected to remain the same as 2011-12 at £0.5 million.

Assembly Commission budget ambit

1. This budget submission is laid in compliance with National Assembly Standing Order 20 to assist in the compilation of the Annual Budget Motion required by Section 125 of the Government of Wales Act 2006. The submission covers the resource and cash requirements of the Assembly Commission for the year ending 31 March 2013 and provisional amounts for the subsequent two years.
2. The Budget Motion will authorise the net resources to be used for the services and purposes of Members and Assembly Services. The motion includes the maximum income (or accruing resources) that may be retained for use on those services and purposes instead of being paid into the Welsh Consolidated Fund, and the cash amount that will need to be issued from the Welsh Consolidated Fund to meet the anticipated net amounts falling due for payment by the Commission.
3. The 2012-13 Budget for the Assembly Commission, addressing these requirements, is set out in Table 5 below.
