

To Whom It May Concern Regarding Historic Wales Proposals'

We write to commend the exceptional work the National Museums of Wales (NMW) have achieved in dismantling barriers, promoting participation and transforming ethnic minority communities engagement with history, collections, heritage etc in Wales.

The exceptional work this organisation have done has distinguished them in their role as beacon leaders in their sphere of operations. This is why the Race Council Cymru - Black History Wales Network have accorded them the highest honour and certificate of recognition praising them for their sterling work, inclusive practices and professional engagement with people from diverse ethnic background and related heritage activities. This has never been done for any other organisation by ethnic minority communities in Wales.

The NWM is best at serving communities as an authentic, dignified and impactful institution that towers above many of its kind. We wholeheartedly support NMW and all it stands for and recommend that this great organisation is maintained in its current effective format.
